Veterans who served in Iraq and Afghanistan face unique challenges upon returning home — from transitioning back to family life to obtaining higher education or identifying a meaningful career in the civilian world. Furthermore, the experience of war itself can evoke powerful changes in returning veterans, and the resulting behavioral health issues affect our service-members, their families, and society as a whole.

Join members of the Warrior Projects team at the Center for BrainHealth as we discuss some of the challenges of reintegration, dispel misconceptions about post-traumatic stress, and discover how we can better support our servicemembers and their families within our local communities.

CENTER FOR Brain Health.
THE UNIVERSITY OF TEXAS AT DALLAS

Cedric Jones, USMC, of the Center for BrainHealth will lead the discussion.
